Albums Club in association with Rock's Backpages, Thursday 13th June, 7pm at The Idler Academy, 81 Westbourne Park Road, London W2 5QH.

For the fifth instalment of our ever popular Albums Club we will be turning our attention to New Wave classic Parallel Lines by Blondie. The band's third album, it was released in 1978 and shot to number one in the UK charts. It contains some of Blondie's best loved and most well known songs, such as Heart of Glass, Hanging on the Telephone and Sunday Girl.

As an antidote to the digital MP3 compressed age, we will be playing the album in full on vinyl. Joining us to discuss the record, we are delighted to be welcoming writer and journalist Lucy O'Brien and Miki Berenyi, guitarist from Lush.

Lucy has been writing on music, feminism and popular culture, and creating fiction since the early 1980s. She grew up in Southampton, played in all-girl punk band The Catholic Girls, and graduated from Leeds University in 1983. Since starting out on NME, she has written for a range of titles including the Sunday Times, Marie Claire, the Guardian, Q and Mojo. She's the author of Madonna: Like An Icon, She Bop and She Bop II and biographies of Dusty Springfield and Annie Lennox.

Miki was guitarist for dream-pop shoegazers Lush who released four albums between 1989 and 1996. They released their critically
